

Date published: Monday, February 4th, 2012
Latest update:

APPENDIX 1c

AUTHOR'S PERSONAL BACKGROUND

This document is part of, and intended to be read in conjunction with, all parts of and appendices to the document entitled CSIROh!

I have an honours engineering degree from the University of Queensland, Australia. My rigorous statutory qualifications led to statutory positions responsible for the lives and livelihood of hundreds of people. My Masters degree in Business Administration from the Graduate School of Business (now the Booth School) at the University of Chicago trained me in statistically sound objective analysis of data. I continue to personally explore the human condition and human behaviour extensively using western and eastern philosophies and methods.

My educational qualifications are similar to those of the UN IPCC Chairman, Dr. Rajendra Pachauri, the so-called "world's top climate scientist". He wrote part of the 'science' in UN IPCC reports.

I'm a professional speaker and provide a specialised hands-on management and leadership service to leaders in business around the world.

For five years I've voluntarily investigated climate science and corruption of climate science. Apart from a very small portion of expenses reimbursed by people's donations to the voluntary Galileo Movement* my work has been funded entirely by me and by my family.

* I was appointed as the Project Leader of The Galileo Movement. Voluntary position.

My work on climate has cost my family and me well over a million dollars in foregone income and in travel and other expenses. I have no conflicts of personal or financial interest and pursue no vested financial interest in revealing climate reality.

I am not affiliated with any political party. I receive no funding or material support from any industry, individual or organisation. I am blessed though with much encouragement from people who cherish truth and desire a future for our country and for our planet.

My personal declaration of interests has been maintained publicly since publishing my first document on global warming (now aka climate change) in 2009. It's available at:

<http://www.conscious.com.au/documents/additional%20material/Personal%20declaration%20of%20interests.pdf>

It presents my qualifications and broad work experience.

I've read thousands of pages of climate science. They in turn reference many thousands more pages. I've discussed climate change with prominent scientists and politicians on both sides of the global warming issue in Australia and internationally. I've written to all nine prominent government-funded Australian academics advocating action against human carbon dioxide (CO₂), agencies employed by government and prominent federal politicians from all parties holding them accountable. Their responses are intriguing and disturbing. See appendices.

My adult work started as a vineyard worker before three years as a coalface miner, mostly underground. I then worked in technical positions before entering management and leadership positions. I've been Chairman of the Board of a small closely held public company.

My travels have been extensive and include all fifty American states, all Australian states and all but one Canadian province and territory. I've lived in varied climate regions. My work has taken me to China, Japan, Korea, Singapore, New Zealand, eight American states, Canada, Britain and most Australian states. I've travelled to Europe. My country of birth and my residence for my childhood years was India where my parents were stationed.

Professional work

My professional work is across all industry sectors in Australia and overseas. My work experience includes Fortune 500 companies internationally.

I provide a specialised management and leadership service and write, speak and consult on human freedom.

I provide leaders with knowledge and methods that free and connect people to be both more productive and at ease. Personal and organisational clients have included company directors and Chief Executives. I've served people at all management levels.

What I've seen is that people in business, politics and relationships are often plagued by sub-conscious fears and guilt that can be released and removed and people freed by understanding the Human Condition and the laws of Nature.

Specifically I assist leaders to understand how to improve organisational and personal performance. That involves assisting leaders to understand what really makes their people tick. Then we build conscious systems with care to free and connect their people. Organisations become more productive and people become happier, more peaceful and at ease—with themselves, with life, free.

My analysis and methods are based on understanding universal human needs and drivers of human consciousness and behaviour. These guide and support clients. Using my methods some clients have doubled productivity without capital expenditure.

Methods are based on each client organisation's core processes and on developing leadership. Australian and overseas clients include commercial and non-profit organisations and government departments. When needed, I provide personal coaching for executives, directors and business owners.

Voluntary work on climate, the environment and freedom

My voluntary work during the last five years provides people with knowledge and understanding of climate science and corruption to meet people's needs for reassurance and ease. My work includes assisting people to understand what really makes people tick*, and then to understand how systems are being manipulated to drive corrupt behaviours. By assisting people to understand variation in Nature, they develop reassurance and ease—understanding, clarity, security, comfort, peace and freedom.

*My voluntary work is based on conveying understanding of laws of Nature and the Human Condition.